

EXPERIENCE LASIK FOR YOURSELF.

What is LASIK and how does it work?

The LASIK procedure is a type of laser vision correction in which a thin flap of the cornea is painlessly lifted and pulses of a cool beam laser precisely sculpt the eye's inner surface. After the laser is applied, which takes approximately 15-60 seconds, the corneal flap is repositioned. Corneal tissue has extraordinary natural bonding qualities, so no stitches are needed.

What are the side effects of LASIK?

Patients may experience some blurring within the first days after the procedure, and for a few weeks, until the eye heals, patients may experience glare or halos around lights.

How long does the whole LASIK procedure take?

The laser operates, on average, less than a minute per eye. Time in the laser room is less than 15 minutes, and total time in a LASIK Vision Institute™ facility is generally between two and four hours.

How long will it take for me to achieve stable vision?

Individual patient's healing responses vary. Many patients will achieve markedly improved vision overnight.

Can I have both eyes treated on the same day?

Most patients do elect to have both eyes treated on the same day. The advantages include convenience, less total time away from work and balance in vision. Consult with your surgeon before you decide.
